Hart's entrepreneurial career began in her teens when she spent a summer helping her father with his vending business, stocking pop and candy machines. When he put her in charge of a Coke machine and allowed her to keep the profits, she saw the benefits of being her own boss.

That entrepreneurial spirit motivates her to show other women how to begin and build their own businesses from home. Her popular website, CWAHM.com (Christian Work at Home Moms) consistently reaches over 13,000 women monthly. Jill is also the co-host of the live internet radio show, The CWAHM Network.

Jill writes, blogs and speaks about working from home, running a business/ministry God's way and finding balance in it all. Jill and CWAHM have been featured in The Wall Street Journal and FIRST Magazine for Women. Her articles have been featured on websites like DrLaura.com and she is a columnist for a number of mom-focused websites. She is also a contributing author in four books and co-author of So You Want to Be a Work-at-Home Mom (Beacon Hill).

Jill has spoken at places nationwide such as the LifeLight Festival (Sioux Falls, SD), Koinonia Business Women's Conference (Olympia, WA), the Nebraska Writer's Guild Conference and many churches.

She has been interviewed on her local NBC station as well as Homekeepers (CTN), Focus4 (CTVN) and The Harvest Show (LeSea Broadcasting). She also appears on the KGBI Morning Show each Monday morning.

Jill presents hope for moms who desire to be at home with their children. Jill's main purpose is to encourage women to experience God in their everyday lives.

What people are saying about Jill Hart ...

"Jill did a fantastic job...there was a lot of interaction with her. She really gave us her heart and provided a good discussion topic. I personally enjoyed the substantive nature of her presentation. She provided great biblical references along with noting contemporary authors." Erin O'Donnell, WINGS event organizer

"Just want to say that Jill was one of the best speakers at the NWG conference, in my opinion: very knowledgeable but also easy to listen to. I vote we give her a larger block of time next year to talk about not only her computer expertise but also about having your own business at home.....I'll bet she has lots more to say on the topic!" - Carol Wessing, event attendee

"Jill Hart is a passionate and humble communicator who desires to glorify the Lord and minister to women. She has an authentic and genuine presence, along with a sense of humor that allows the listener to quickly relate to her. She is a prepared and knowledgeable speaker who makes herself relatable to any audience. Jill is an entrepreneur and a leader to many women." - Holly Timberlake, Faith-Westwood Church
